

PRODUCT SAFETY RECALL

VOLUNTARY RECALL

of PRO, SHIMANO and SAINT cycling gloves

It has recently come to Shimano Benelux BV's attention that, contrary to its strict contractual specifications, certain PRO, SHIMANO and SAINT cycling gloves manufactured by Shimano's supplier in Pakistan contain traces of Benzidine.

As a precaution, Shimano has voluntarily decided to recall all PRO, SHIMANO and SAINT cycling gloves which carry a label indicating that they were made in Pakistan, or which carry no label at all.

Cycling gloves that carry a label indicating they were manufactured elsewhere are not affected by this recall. The label is located on the inside of the gloves.

The affected gloves can partly differ from the images significantly.

Label inside the gloves with specified origin "Pakistan". Gloves without any label in are also affected by this recall.

If you have a pair of gloves affected by this recall, or if you are unsure, you should stop using the gloves immediately and either visit a SHIMANO/PRO dealer, or visit Shimano's website on the address below in order to get details on how to obtain a refund:
